

Nemo

CORSETS

Stand Alone!

These three models—
—show the last-known
—made back from five and ten years. Details have been confirmed to changing fashions, construction and fabrics are improved; but the Nemo features have remained the same.

These models are in greater demand to-day
than ever before.

What does that mean?
—It means that women who have worn them can't do without them. There is no substitute. No other corset can give equal style, ease, long wear, and—
HYGIENIC SERVICE.

Though all the foolish corset fads the Nemo has come out stronger, more popular than ever.

Three Models that are Fits of Millions

322
$3.00

403
$4.00

523
$5.00

No. 322—$3.00
No. 403—$4.00
No. 523—$5.00

No. 341—$3.00
Be a Wise Woman!
Get the Nemo Habit
SOLD EVERYWHERE
The Nemo Corset-Patent System, N. Y.

How Is Your Weight?
While it is true that too much weight is not to be desired, yet the fact remains that many men and women are this day having no means, force or nerve to resist the evil of obesity. A little extra flesh is needed by all to feel well and to look well, and this calls up the question of how best to increase the weight.
Nemo corsets are made by experienced tailors and are made to the exact size and shape of the body.

DECLARES MAYO WAS ARRESTED FOR DESERTION

(Continued from First Page.)

Mayo's marriage to the woman who is now his wife in his New Haven home.

Proofs of the marriage of one V. J. Mayo to Miss Florence Weeks of Scranton continue to appear. The files of the Scranton Times furnished one document in the case. This is the account of the wedding which appeared in that paper on Saturday, May 17, 1900:

"Miss Florence Weeks, the estimable daughter of Mr. F. H. Weeks, was married at Binghamton last

OF VITAL IMPORTANCE TO YOUR POCKETBOOK.

FREE SUGAR

With Purchase of Coffee, Tea and Cocoa.

STANDARD BRANDS

CONDENSED GOODS.

3-1/2 lbs. of Sugar FREE with 3 lbs. of the Standard Brand Condensed Milk.

Send for Free Catalogue and Sample.

The House of Food Products, Inc.

25-26 WEST 22D ST., NEW YORK

Wednesday to Mr. V. J. Mayo of Belmont, N. Y. Miss Weeks has a large circle of friends, who wish her the greatest felicity obtainable. The young couple somewhat surprised their friends, but all join in wishing them abundance of happiness. Mr. Mayo is an electrician and an adept in his line; he has also made many friends during the short time he has resided in this city.

"The first intimation that Scranton people had of the union was when the young couple stepped from the train at the D. L. & W. depot, and afterward registered at the Westminster. In social circles throughout the city yesterday and last evening it was the topic of conversation, but only the best things were said of the young couple, and all wished them a happy future. Mr. and Mrs. Mayo will reside at the Westminster for the present."

TELLS OF HER ELOPEMENT WITH MAYO IN 1900.

When Mayo first met Miss Weeks she was only seventeen years old. She was nineteen at the time of the marriage and is forty-four now, although in most all of the newspaper accounts her age has been given as fifty-five. Mayo was then stopping at the Westminster Hotel in Wyoming Avenue, adjoining which Miss Weeks's father, F. H. Weeks, kept a shoe store. Very often Mayo and the young girl met in front of the store, and it was not long before he was a steady visitor at the Weeks home.

Before Mrs. Mayo immersed herself she said of the Mayo of those days:

"He was so tall, so gentle, so commanding, that when he asked me to be his bride I consented and we agreed to elope to Binghamton."

Mrs. Mayo's characterization of Mayo as gentle and commanding recalls the statement by Miss Susie M. Wahlers of New Haven, who has just come forward with a two-year-old daughter which she says is Virginia J. Mayo's child. Miss Wahlers said: "There was something about him which I cannot just describe—perhaps it was his kindness. He made every one do just what he wanted by being kind and good."

Mrs. Mayo's case had an added development to-day in the statement of her brother, Frank Weeks, who lives in Haddonfield, about thirty miles from here, to which town Mrs. Mayo went with her three daughters when Mayo deserted her. Weeks said that not only had Mayo married his sister in Binghamton, but that he had been arrested in Haddonfield, when the couple lived there, and put under bond charged with desertion and non-support. Bond was given, according to Weeks, and forfeited because Mayo skipped out.

That was fifteen years ago and was the last Mrs. Mayo saw of her husband. A few months later both of Mrs. Mayo's parents died and she returned with her three children to Scranton. She went to work to support them, and they followed her at work as soon as they were old enough. Nine years ago Mrs. Mayo was told by William F. Weeks, who had worked with her husband, that Mayo was dead.

SAYS HER UNCLE INVESTIGATED THE MARRIAGE.

On Friday of last week Mrs. Mayo read in a newspaper the name of Virginia J. Mayo in connection with the suicide of Lillian Cook of Brooklyn in New Haven. She at once collected a number of clippings and a picture published of Mayo and sent them to her brother in Haddonfield. He, too, had noted the resemblance, and then Mrs. Mayo's announcement of her marriage to Virginia J. Mayo in Binghamton twenty-five years ago was made.

While Mrs. Mayo has steadfastly refused to talk about her case, her sister, Mrs. Mary E. Reynolds, of Waverly, fifteen miles from Scranton, was more communicative. When she was told that Benjamin Slade, attorney for Virginia J. Mayo, denied for his client that Mayo was the husband of Mrs. Mayo of Scranton, she said: "That is to be expected." Speaking of the marriage, she went on: "It was a great surprise to us. When

"He was so tall, so gentle, so commanding, that when he asked me to be his bride I consented and we agreed to elope to Binghamton."

Mrs. Mayo's characterization of Mayo as gentle and commanding recalls the statement by Miss Susie M. Wahlers of New Haven, who has just come forward with a two-year-old daughter which she says is Virginia J. Mayo's child. Miss Wahlers said: "There was something about him which I cannot just describe—perhaps it was his kindness. He made every one do just what he wanted by being kind and good."

Mrs. Mayo's case had an added development to-day in the statement of her brother, Frank Weeks, who lives in Haddonfield, about thirty miles from here, to which town Mrs. Mayo went with her three daughters when Mayo deserted her. Weeks said that not only had Mayo married his sister in Binghamton, but that he had been arrested in Haddonfield, when the couple lived there, and put under bond charged with desertion and non-support. Bond was given, according to Weeks, and forfeited because Mayo skipped out.

That was fifteen years ago and was the last Mrs. Mayo saw of her husband. A few months later both of Mrs. Mayo's parents died and she returned with her three children to Scranton. She went to work to support them, and they followed her at work as soon as they were old enough. Nine years ago Mrs. Mayo was told by William F. Weeks, who had worked with her husband, that Mayo was dead.

SAYS HER UNCLE INVESTIGATED THE MARRIAGE.

On Friday of last week Mrs. Mayo read in a newspaper the name of Virginia J. Mayo in connection with the suicide of Lillian Cook of Brooklyn in New Haven. She at once collected a number of clippings and a picture published of Mayo and sent them to her brother in Haddonfield. He, too, had noted the resemblance, and then Mrs. Mayo's announcement of her marriage to Virginia J. Mayo in Binghamton twenty-five years ago was made.

While Mrs. Mayo has steadfastly refused to talk about her case, her sister, Mrs. Mary E. Reynolds, of Waverly, fifteen miles from Scranton, was more communicative. When she was told that Benjamin Slade, attorney for Virginia J. Mayo, denied for his client that Mayo was the husband of Mrs. Mayo of Scranton, she said: "That is to be expected." Speaking of the marriage, she went on: "It was a great surprise to us. When

"He was so tall, so gentle, so commanding, that when he asked me to be his bride I consented and we agreed to elope to Binghamton."

Mrs. Mayo's characterization of Mayo as gentle and commanding recalls the statement by Miss Susie M. Wahlers of New Haven, who has just come forward with a two-year-old daughter which she says is Virginia J. Mayo's child. Miss Wahlers said: "There was something about him which I cannot just describe—perhaps it was his kindness. He made every one do just what he wanted by being kind and good."

Mrs. Mayo's case had an added development to-day in the statement of her brother, Frank Weeks, who lives in Haddonfield, about thirty miles from here, to which town Mrs. Mayo went with her three daughters when Mayo deserted her. Weeks said that not only had Mayo married his sister in Binghamton, but that he had been arrested in Haddonfield, when the couple lived there, and put under bond charged with desertion and non-support. Bond was given, according to Weeks, and forfeited because Mayo skipped out.

That was fifteen years ago and was the last Mrs. Mayo saw of her husband. A few months later both of Mrs. Mayo's parents died and she returned with her three children to Scranton. She went to work to support them, and they followed her at work as soon as they were old enough. Nine years ago Mrs. Mayo was told by William F. Weeks, who had worked with her husband, that Mayo was dead.

SAYS HER UNCLE INVESTIGATED THE MARRIAGE.

On Friday of last week Mrs. Mayo read in a newspaper the name of Virginia J. Mayo in connection with the suicide of Lillian Cook of Brooklyn in New Haven. She at once collected a number of clippings and a picture published of Mayo and sent them to her brother in Haddonfield. He, too, had noted the resemblance, and then Mrs. Mayo's announcement of her marriage to Virginia J. Mayo in Binghamton twenty-five years ago was made.

While Mrs. Mayo has steadfastly refused to talk about her case, her sister, Mrs. Mary E. Reynolds, of Waverly, fifteen miles from Scranton, was more communicative. When she was told that Benjamin Slade, attorney for Virginia J. Mayo, denied for his client that Mayo was the husband of Mrs. Mayo of Scranton, she said: "That is to be expected." Speaking of the marriage, she went on: "It was a great surprise to us. When

"He was so tall, so gentle, so commanding, that when he asked me to be his bride I consented and we agreed to elope to Binghamton."

Mrs. Mayo's characterization of Mayo as gentle and commanding recalls the statement by Miss Susie M. Wahlers of New Haven, who has just come forward with a two-year-old daughter which she says is Virginia J. Mayo's child. Miss Wahlers said: "There was something about him which I cannot just describe—perhaps it was his kindness. He made every one do just what he wanted by being kind and good."

Mrs. Mayo's case had an added development to-day in the statement of her brother, Frank Weeks, who lives in Haddonfield, about thirty miles from here, to which town Mrs. Mayo went with her three daughters when Mayo deserted her. Weeks said that not only had Mayo married his sister in Binghamton, but that he had been arrested in Haddonfield, when the couple lived there, and put under bond charged with desertion and non-support. Bond was given, according to Weeks, and forfeited because Mayo skipped out.

That was fifteen years ago and was the last Mrs. Mayo saw of her husband. A few months later both of Mrs. Mayo's parents died and she returned with her three children to Scranton. She went to work to support them, and they followed her at work as soon as they were old enough. Nine years ago Mrs. Mayo was told by William F. Weeks, who had worked with her husband, that Mayo was dead.

SAYS HER UNCLE INVESTIGATED THE MARRIAGE.

On Friday of last week Mrs. Mayo read in a newspaper the name of Virginia J. Mayo in connection with the suicide of Lillian Cook of Brooklyn in New Haven. She at once collected a number of clippings and a picture published of Mayo and sent them to her brother in Haddonfield. He, too, had noted the resemblance, and then Mrs. Mayo's announcement of her marriage to Virginia J. Mayo in Binghamton twenty-five years ago was made.

While Mrs. Mayo has steadfastly refused to talk about her case, her sister, Mrs. Mary E. Reynolds, of Waverly, fifteen miles from Scranton, was more communicative. When she was told that Benjamin Slade, attorney for Virginia J. Mayo, denied for his client that Mayo was the husband of Mrs. Mayo of Scranton, she said: "That is to be expected." Speaking of the marriage, she went on: "It was a great surprise to us. When

"He was so tall, so gentle, so commanding, that when he asked me to be his bride I consented and we agreed to elope to Binghamton."

Mrs. Mayo's characterization of Mayo as gentle and commanding recalls the statement by Miss Susie M. Wahlers of New Haven, who has just come forward with a two-year-old daughter which she says is Virginia J. Mayo's child. Miss Wahlers said: "There was something about him which I cannot just describe—perhaps it was his kindness. He made every one do just what he wanted by being kind and good."

Mrs. Mayo's case had an added development to-day in the statement of her brother, Frank Weeks, who lives in Haddonfield, about thirty miles from here, to which town Mrs. Mayo went with her three daughters when Mayo deserted her. Weeks said that not only had Mayo married his sister in Binghamton, but that he had been arrested in Haddonfield, when the couple lived there, and put under bond charged with desertion and non-support. Bond was given, according to Weeks, and forfeited because Mayo skipped out.

That was fifteen years ago and was the last Mrs. Mayo saw of her husband. A few months later both of Mrs. Mayo's parents died and she returned with her three children to Scranton. She went to work to support them, and they followed her at work as soon as they were old enough. Nine years ago Mrs. Mayo was told by William F. Weeks, who had worked with her husband, that Mayo was dead.

SAYS HER UNCLE INVESTIGATED THE MARRIAGE.

On Friday of last week Mrs. Mayo read in a newspaper the name of Virginia J. Mayo in connection with the suicide of Lillian Cook of Brooklyn in New Haven. She at once collected a number of clippings and a picture published of Mayo and sent them to her brother in Haddonfield. He, too, had noted the resemblance, and then Mrs. Mayo's announcement of her marriage to Virginia J. Mayo in Binghamton twenty-five years ago was made.

While Mrs. Mayo has steadfastly refused to talk about her case, her sister, Mrs. Mary E. Reynolds, of Waverly, fifteen miles from Scranton, was more communicative. When she was told that Benjamin Slade, attorney for Virginia J. Mayo, denied for his client that Mayo was the husband of Mrs. Mayo of Scranton, she said: "That is to be expected." Speaking of the marriage, she went on: "It was a great surprise to us. When

"He was so tall, so gentle, so commanding, that when he asked me to be his bride I consented and we agreed to elope to Binghamton."

Mrs. Mayo's characterization of Mayo as gentle and commanding recalls the statement by Miss Susie M. Wahlers of New Haven, who has just come forward with a two-year-old daughter which she says is Virginia J. Mayo's child. Miss Wahlers said: "There was something about him which I cannot just describe—perhaps it was his kindness. He made every one do just what he wanted by being kind and good."

Mrs. Mayo's case had an added development to-day in the statement of her brother, Frank Weeks, who lives in Haddonfield, about thirty miles from here, to which town Mrs. Mayo went with her three daughters when Mayo deserted her. Weeks said that not only had Mayo married his sister in Binghamton, but that he had been arrested in Haddonfield, when the couple lived there, and put under bond charged with desertion and non-support. Bond was given, according to Weeks, and forfeited because Mayo skipped out.

That was fifteen years ago and was the last Mrs. Mayo saw of her husband. A few months later both of Mrs. Mayo's parents died and she returned with her three children to Scranton. She went to work to support them, and they followed her at work as soon as they were old enough. Nine years ago Mrs. Mayo was told by William F. Weeks, who had worked with her husband, that Mayo was dead.

SAYS HER UNCLE INVESTIGATED THE MARRIAGE.

On Friday of last week Mrs. Mayo read in a newspaper the name of Virginia J. Mayo in connection with the suicide of Lillian Cook of Brooklyn in New Haven. She at once collected a number of clippings and a picture published of Mayo and sent them to her brother in Haddonfield. He, too, had noted the resemblance, and then Mrs. Mayo's announcement of her marriage to Virginia J. Mayo in Binghamton twenty-five years ago was made.

While Mrs. Mayo has steadfastly refused to talk about her case, her sister, Mrs. Mary E. Reynolds, of Waverly, fifteen miles from Scranton, was more communicative. When she was told that Benjamin Slade, attorney for Virginia J. Mayo, denied for his client that Mayo was the husband of Mrs. Mayo of Scranton, she said: "That is to be expected." Speaking of the marriage, she went on: "It was a great surprise to us. When

"He was so tall, so gentle, so commanding, that when he asked me to be his bride I consented and we agreed to elope to Binghamton."

Mrs. Mayo's characterization of Mayo as gentle and commanding recalls the statement by Miss Susie M. Wahlers of New Haven, who has just come forward with a two-year-old daughter which she says is Virginia J. Mayo's child. Miss Wahlers said: "There was something about him which I cannot just describe—perhaps it was his kindness. He made every one do just what he wanted by being kind and good."

Mrs. Mayo's case had an added development to-day in the statement of her brother, Frank Weeks, who lives in Haddonfield, about thirty miles from here, to which town Mrs. Mayo went with her three daughters when Mayo deserted her. Weeks said that not only had Mayo married his sister in Binghamton, but that he had been arrested in Haddonfield, when the couple lived there, and put under bond charged with desertion and non-support. Bond was given, according to Weeks, and forfeited because Mayo skipped out.

That was fifteen years ago and was the last Mrs. Mayo saw of her husband. A few months later both of Mrs. Mayo's parents died and she returned with her three children to Scranton. She went to work to support them, and they followed her at work as soon as they were old enough. Nine years ago Mrs. Mayo was told by William F. Weeks, who had worked with her husband, that Mayo was dead.

SAYS HER UNCLE INVESTIGATED THE MARRIAGE.

On Friday of last week Mrs. Mayo read in a newspaper the name of Virginia J. Mayo in connection with the suicide of Lillian Cook of Brooklyn in New Haven. She at once collected a number of clippings and a picture published of Mayo and sent them to her brother in Haddonfield. He, too, had noted the resemblance, and then Mrs. Mayo's announcement of her marriage to Virginia J. Mayo in Binghamton twenty-five years ago was made.

While Mrs. Mayo has steadfastly refused to talk about her case, her sister, Mrs. Mary E. Reynolds, of Waverly, fifteen miles from Scranton, was more communicative. When she was told that Benjamin Slade, attorney for Virginia J. Mayo, denied for his client that Mayo was the husband of Mrs. Mayo of Scranton, she said: "That is to be expected." Speaking of the marriage, she went on: "It was a great surprise to us. When

"He was so tall, so gentle, so commanding, that when he asked me to be his bride I consented and we agreed to elope to Binghamton."

Mrs. Mayo's characterization of Mayo as gentle and commanding recalls the statement by Miss Susie M. Wahlers of New Haven, who has just come forward with a two-year-old daughter which she says is Virginia J. Mayo's child. Miss Wahlers said: "There was something about him which I cannot just describe—perhaps it was his kindness. He made every one do just what he wanted by being kind and good."

Mrs. Mayo's case had an added development to-day in the statement of her brother, Frank Weeks, who lives in Haddonfield, about thirty miles from here, to which town Mrs. Mayo went with her three daughters when Mayo deserted her. Weeks said that not only had Mayo married his sister in Binghamton, but that he had been arrested in Haddonfield, when the couple lived there, and put under bond charged with desertion and non-support. Bond was given, according to Weeks, and forfeited because Mayo skipped out.

That was fifteen years ago and was the last Mrs. Mayo saw of her husband. A few months later both of Mrs. Mayo's parents died and she returned with her three children to Scranton. She went to work to support them, and they followed her at work as soon as they were old enough. Nine years ago Mrs. Mayo was told by William F. Weeks, who had worked with her husband, that Mayo was dead.

SAYS HER UNCLE INVESTIGATED THE MARRIAGE.

On Friday of last week Mrs. Mayo read in a newspaper the name of Virginia J. Mayo in connection with the suicide of Lillian Cook of Brooklyn in New Haven. She at once collected a number of clippings and a picture published of Mayo and sent them to her brother in Haddonfield. He, too, had noted the resemblance, and then Mrs. Mayo's announcement of her marriage to Virginia J. Mayo in Binghamton twenty-five years ago was made.

While Mrs. Mayo has steadfastly refused to talk about her case, her sister, Mrs. Mary E. Reynolds, of Waverly, fifteen miles from Scranton, was more communicative. When she was told that Benjamin Slade, attorney for Virginia J. Mayo, denied for his client that Mayo was the husband of Mrs. Mayo of Scranton, she said: "That is to be expected." Speaking of the marriage, she went on: "It was a great surprise to us. When

"He was so tall, so gentle, so commanding, that when he asked me to be his bride I consented and we agreed to elope to Binghamton."

Mrs. Mayo's characterization of Mayo as gentle and commanding recalls the statement by Miss Susie M. Wahlers of New Haven, who has just come forward with a two-year-old daughter which she says is Virginia J. Mayo's child. Miss Wahlers said: "There was something about him which I cannot just describe—perhaps it was his kindness. He made every one do just what he wanted by being kind and good."

Mrs. Mayo's case had an added development to-day in the statement of her brother, Frank Weeks, who lives in Haddonfield, about thirty miles from here, to which town Mrs. Mayo went with her three daughters when Mayo deserted her. Weeks said that not only had Mayo married his sister in Binghamton, but that he had been arrested in Haddonfield, when the couple lived there, and put under bond charged with desertion and non-support. Bond was given, according to Weeks, and forfeited because Mayo skipped out.

That was fifteen years ago and was the last Mrs. Mayo saw of her husband. A few months later both of Mrs. Mayo's parents died and she returned with her three children to Scranton. She went to work to support them, and they followed her at work as soon as they were old enough. Nine years ago Mrs. Mayo was told by William F. Weeks, who had worked with her husband, that Mayo was dead.

SAYS HER UNCLE INVESTIGATED THE MARRIAGE.

On Friday of last week Mrs. Mayo read in a newspaper the name of Virginia J. Mayo in connection with the suicide of Lillian Cook of Brooklyn in New Haven. She at once collected a number of clippings and a picture published of Mayo and sent them to her brother in Haddonfield. He, too, had noted the resemblance, and then Mrs. Mayo's announcement of her marriage to Virginia J. Mayo in Binghamton twenty-five years ago was made.

While Mrs. Mayo has steadfastly refused to talk about her case, her sister, Mrs. Mary E. Reynolds, of Waverly, fifteen miles from Scranton, was more communicative. When she was told that Benjamin Slade, attorney for Virginia J. Mayo, denied for his client that Mayo was the husband of Mrs. Mayo of Scranton, she said: "That is to be expected." Speaking of the marriage, she went on: "It was a great surprise to us. When

W. W. COLE, OLD-TIME CIRCUS KING, IS DEAD

Aged Showman Expires at Hotel Biltmore and Leaves a Fortune.

William Washington Cole, known for more than half a century in the circus world as W. W. Cole and a pioneer in the presentation of the more elaborate forms of circus entertainment, died Wednesday night at his apartments at the Hotel Biltmore. He was in his sixty-ninth year.

W. W. Cole's circus was one of the first big one-ring railroad shows and it grew with the circus business. He was a rival of P. T. Barnum, Adam Forepaugh and the Sells Brothers, and was a veteran in the business long before the Ringling Brothers, the reigning kings of canvas shows, were out of their kindergarten days as entertainers. His circus was swallowed by the Barnum & Bailey organization, in which he had an interest until the Ringlings took it over.

Mr. Cole's biggest year as a showman was in the eighties, when he took out into the rural districts the first air light ever seen in those parts. The show grounds outside the tents were lighted by arc lights, with power furnished by a portable dynamo, and people travelled miles to see the newest form of illumination. Mr. Cole died rich. His widow is his only surviving near relative.

Gives Auto to Suffragists.

Seventeen women in gala array assembled for a birthday luncheon yesterday at the Woman Suffrage Party headquarters, No. 4 East Thirty-fourth Street. A "bank loan" at the door brought the entire seventeen to the street to welcome the guest of honor, a yellow touring car, presented to the tenth Campaign District. The anonymous donor, described as a young and handsome man, came along for the christening party.

DANCE

to the most popular of Fox Trot

Ballin' the Jack

It's on one side of a dance record you certainly ought to have. On the other side is another prize winner. "MEADOWBROOK FORTNIGHT" both played by Prince's Band in clever style. Just ask your dealer for Columbia Record No. 1450, the price $1.50.

COLUMBIA

DOUBLE-DISC RECORDS

SUNDAY WORLD WANTS WORK WOMEN

Franklin Simon & Co.

Fifth Avenue, 37th and 38th Sts.

Misses' and Girls' Easter Apparel

Which Appeals to All Tastes by Reason of its Exclusive and Out-of-the-Ordinary Character

Misses' Tailored Suits—14 to 20 years

Copies of the Latest Paris Models

Gabardine, English Serge or Shepherd Checks.....18.50 to 98.50
Silk Faille, Poplin or Taffeta.....29.50 to 98.50

Franklin Simon & Co. Will Offer Saturday "Country Club" and "Cross Country" Suits

Four New Exclusive Misses' Models—"Style Registered"

Strictly tailored, semi-loose belted or military coat suits of imported gabardine or serge, in navy blue, black, bamboo, white, green or gray; also shepherd checks, homespun or tweeds. 14 to 20 years. Special 29.50

Misses' and Girls' Coats

Largest Assortment of Exclusive Models at Popular Prices

Misses' Sport Coats.....14 to 20 years.....9.75 to 45.00
Misses' English Covert Top Coats.....14 to 20 years.....18.50 to 49.50
Girls' Sport Coats.....6 to 16 years.....8.95 to 18.50
Girls' Dressy Coats.....6 to 16 years.....9.75 to 29.50

Franklin Simon & Co. Will Offer Saturday

Girls' Silk Lined Top Coats

Smart tailored coat of navy serge, shepherd checks; mixed tweed or covert, notch collar, turn back cuffs, flap pockets; silk lined. 8 to 16 years. Special 9.75

Misses' Silk Lined Slip-on Coats

Of navy blue gabardine or covert cloth, also imported tweeds; convertible collar; mannish side pockets; silk lined. 14 to 20 years. Special 19.75

Misses' Dresses and Gowns—14 to 20 years

Silk Afternoon Gowns.....18.50 to 69.50
Dancing and Evening Gowns.....18.50 to 98.50
Serge and Wool Dresses.....11.50 to 39.50

Franklin Simon & Co. Will Offer Saturday

Misses' Silk Afternoon Dresses

Of soft taffeta or crepe meteor silk, in old blue, rose, sand, navy or black; hand embroidered in gilt thread; collar of fillet lace; sleeves of Georgette crepe; new model skirts. 14 to 20 years. Special 18.50

Junior and Girls' Dresses—6 to 17 years

Washable Frocks.....4.75 to 29.50
Silk Afternoon Dresses.....12.75 to 39.50
Party and Dancing Frocks.....9.75 to 45.00

Franklin Simon & Co. Will Offer Saturday

Girls' Hand Smocked Dresses

Three exclusive models of white French batiste or French chambray, in pink, blue or tan, hand smocked and hand embroidered. 6 to 12 years. Special 4.75

Misses' and Girls' Shoe Shop

SPECIAL FOR SATURDAY

Girls' White Buckskin Shoes

Of white buckskin, on "Franklin" orthopedic last, buttoned or laced, light welted soles. Spring heels, sizes 11 to 12½. Low heels, sizes 13 to 2. Special 3.85

Misses' Dress Shoes

Black and white, polished patent leather, with black cloth or black kid uppers. Sizes 2½ to 7½. Widths AA to D. Special 4.00

The John Wanamaker Store

The Specialty Shops of Fashion are Dressed in Their Easter Clothes

SUITS COATS GOWNS HATS LINGERIE BLOUSES GLOVES

Women's Suits
$16.75, $22.50, $28.50

The genius of Jeanne Lanvin inspired some new suits in three charming models, priced very moderately at $28.50.

One, in black, navy and chestnut, with right revers, notched lapels, and the scalloped carried out in sides and back of coat and skirt.

The other two are in black and navy serge of a fine quality; one shows new arrangement of patch pockets with center button carried out in coat and skirt; the other has belted back, belt merging into pockets; pockets on skirt; cuff sleeves which unbutton for turning back.

The suits at $28.50 are of men's wear serge in black and navy, plain tailored, single and double breasted.

The suits at $16.75, in black and navy serge, are excellent suits for business wear.

The coat is cut on mannish lines, with lapels rolling down to the three buttons, and with breast pocket and two side pockets; skirt is pleated on sides with slight flare at hem.

Gray Suits—Second floor, Old Bldg.

Women's Dresses
Women's Coats

In great variety, constantly arriving; starting at $5.

Second floor, Old Building.

Spring Suits for Young Women

A $23.50, $25, $27.50 Day

Ask for a suit at any of these prices and you will be amazed at what we can show you.

A most unusual collection of inexpensive suits. Materials are really beautiful and fashions wonderfully smart.

—See the suit with cuff skirt, checked pique waistcoat and apple bottomers.

—The remarkable collection of Norfolk and belted suits. Please note the individuality of the skirts.

And the superb assortment of checks of all kinds.

Loose coats and some of the even newer semi-fitted styles.

Gabardine, men's-wear serge, poplin, checks and homespun are the materials, and navy, checks, Belgian blue, and sand and black are the colors.

Sizes 14 to 20 years.

The Cost of the Hour

is a great loose swinging coat with raglan sleeves and two straps, between the shoulders.

We copied one of our higher-priced models, and now offer this coat, all silk-lined, at $15.50.

Sizes 14 to 20 years.

Second floor, Old Building.

A Sale of Dainty Neckwear

50c Equal to Our 75c to $1.50 Grades

Collars, and collar and cuff sets of fine sheer St. Gall embroidery.

In white or natural color they give the Springiest touch to your dresses and suit. All new shapes.

Exceptional at 50c to $1.25

Vestees and vestees and cuffs of tucked organdie, lace, organdie and net, and voile.

New and becoming collar effects.

Third floor, Old Building.

Spring Blouses

Thousands of Easter blouses smilingly ready to complete any tailored costume. Blouses more charming than we ever had. Prices moderate and materials fine beyond criticism.

BLOUSES WITH A FRILL

COLLAR at $2.50. Sheer white lawn low at the throat and so daintily fashioned that it is a pleasure to wear.

BOLERO BLOUSE at $2.75. White handkerchief linen copied from one of our imported French blouses. Shown in the picture.

SUSPENDER BLOUSES at $2.50. White and flesh colored crepe de chine. Shown for the first time. Entirely different.

THE ENCHANTING BLOUSE at $7.50. A cozy fine blouse of an ivory colored chamois-like lace loosely draped in jacket effect over flesh colored crepe chiffon.

Hundreds of other new blouses at $2, $3, $5, $6.75.

Third floor, Old Building.

Choose, Women's Shoes at $5

For the conservative girl—a beautifully shaped dull leather or patent leather colonial—the vamp and tongue made all in one piece.

For the older woman. A buckled colonial with a low, sturdy heel.

For the up to date woman. A very smart low pointed tongue pump with a tiny tailored bow. They come in patent leather combined